

Dallas Royalty at Galveston Mardi Gras

The Duchess of Dallas at the Galveston Mardi Gras Ball was Miss Louise Nesbitt, left, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Nesbitt, and her maid was Miss Virginia Woodward, right, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dudley K. Woodward. They were presented Tuesday evening at the elaborate Queen's Ball, and Monday evening they attended the King's Ball. Each of the days was filled with morning and afternoon entertainments.

Miss Nesbitt's gown of black satin was enhanced by sequin trimming and transparent gold sleeves and train panels. On her golden red curls a crown of emeralds, diamond and rubies was placed. Miss Woodward's gown was fashioned of coral velvet and its gold lace braid trimmings were encrusted with many sparkling pearls, sapphires and emeralds. Holding her golden snood in place was a gold and turquoise crown. She is carrying a golden casket. Miss Nesbitt and Miss Woodward will return to Dallas Wednesday.
